Spend a cold winter afternoon in our warm auditorium with a trip down memory lane with Danny Thomas in

The Jazz Singer

This wonderful 1952 version of the musical drama portrays Danny Thomas as Jerry Golding, a cantor's son turned cabaret singer. The cantor hoped Jerry would follow in his footsteps and when he didn't, Cantor Golding says Kaddish for his son. A reconciliation and upbeat ending occurs when Jerry returns to sing "Kol Nidre" in his ailing father's absence. The fabulous Peggy Lee co-stars as a musical comedy entertainer who falls in love with Jerry.
